Mineral Mound State Park

This peaceful setting on the shores of Lake Barkley is historically linked to the author F. Scott Fitzgerald. The property was once the farm of Willis B. Machen (1818-1893), grandfather of Zelda Sayre-Fitzgerald. Machen was a farmer, manufacturer and then lawyer, before becoming a state senator and member of the U.S. House of Representatives. It's not hard to imagine the serene, Gatsby-style era from this park, with idyllic days of playing golf and cruising the lake.

The golf course offers quite a challenge with the front 9 holes situated in a wooded area and many of the back 9 holes flanked by lake views. This course is part of the Kentucky State Parks system's "Signature Series" of golf courses.

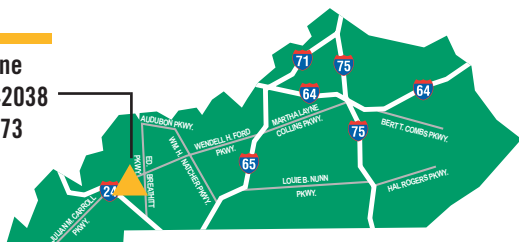

Golf: Challenging 18-hole golf course with pro shop offering rental carts, clubs and golf merchandise.

Boating: Launching ramp and fishing pier – open year-round.

Hiking Trails: Hiking trails through the 541 acres of Mineral Mound are being developed. Look for signage on the park.

Picnic Area: Open year-round.
